How does the library operate?

Gardiner Library is supported by a dedicated staff, volunteers, and a Board of Trustees, all working together to serve the community. Staff provide daily services, manage the collection, and coordinate programs and activities. Volunteers contribute their time to programs, events, fundraising, and other Library needs.

The Board of Trustees is responsible for governance, including strategic planning, policy development, financial oversight, and supporting the Library Director.

The Library's budget is supported through a combination of municipal tax funding, donations, fundraising, grants, and program revenue.

414 provides a stable public funding base while the Library continues to raise additional funds from the community and other sources.
